Congolese Red Rebels On Warpath

U.S. Planes Flying Supplies To Army Battling Invaders

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Communist-backed rebel bands went on the warpath across the Congo on Friday. Four giant American air freighters — guarded by U.S. Army paratroopers — started flying supplies to hard-pressed Congolese army forces.

Principal hot spots were Bukavu, in the eastern Congo and capital of Kivu Province, and Kikwit, in Kwilu Province, 700 miles to the west.

A radio teletype message from Bukavu said a rebel band was only 12 miles from the city. The message said Bukavu's Congolese army defenders were short of ammunition and there was panic in the city.

2,000 REBELS

In the west, rebel leader Pierre Mulele's spear- and musket-carrying warriors were reported 20 miles south of Kikwit and concentrating a force of more than 2,000 men, after being inactive for several months.

G. Mennen Williams, U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs, conferred with Moise Tshombe, the Congo's new premier. Williams flew into Leopoldville for talks with the Congolese on implementing a decision to step up Belgian and U.S. military aid to the struggling former Belgian territory.

The four U.S. C130 Hercules planes, capable of carrying 90 combat-ready paratroopers, took off from Leopoldville's Ndjili Airport on their first missions to aid the shaky Congo army. They arrived here Thursday night, bringing with them 40 paratroopers from Ft. Bragg, N.C.

The paratroopers, the first foreign soldiers to set foot in the Congo since the United Nations sent its force home on June 30, clambered out of the planes and immediately took up their assigned task of guarding the airport.

They also will fly as shotgun guards aboard three American helicopters which arrived here today inside U.S. C124 Globemaster transports.

Williams said the dispatching of American troops to the Congo in no way indicated a radical change in U.S. policy.

The soldiers were part of a U.S. emergency aid program. Embassy officials underlined they were not here to fight the rebels.

Nonetheless, they received an expected condemnation from Antoine Kiwewa, president of the followers of the late Patrice Lumumba, the Congo's fiery first prime minister who was murdered in Katanga.

Kiwewa also attacked Tshombe for bringing back members of his former secessionist gendarmes to fight the rebels. Tshombe has indicated he counts largely on his fellow Katangans to restore order.

American sources said the C130 planes will be used largely to airlift Tshombe's gendarmes to rebel zones and keep them supplied.

A military source said one Hercules flew to Bukavu. It was also reported six rebels were killed and several captured in the Bukavu area fighting.

Brief messages from the rebel-held northern city of Stanleyville said rebel leader Gaston Soumialot, 42, had reached Kinshasa, capital of Maniema Province.

The United Nations is trying to arrange a mercy flight of doctors and medicines to Stanleyville. It was hoped the plane would be able to evacuate U.S. Consul Michael Hoyt and his staff of four from Stanleyville.

New Fad Starts In Ferris Wheels

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ferris wheels — which used to be just for fun — reeled under a new fad Friday from riders out to prove they could go around in circles longer than the next fellow.

The craze fanned out at county fairs from Ohio and Oklahoma, led mostly by teen-agers. In Oklahoma City, Jon Ramsey, 18, laid unofficial claim to a new record — that last one stood up for three days — as he passed the 66-hour mark. He planned to stay on until Saturday.

He has been promised $100 plus $3 for each hour he stays on past the 40-hour mark, the previous record.

DASHES EARLY ADJOURNMENT

Redistrict Row Stirs Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The irresistible drive toward congressional adjournment ran into an immovable controversy Friday over the Supreme Court's reapportionment ruling.

With angered senators crying out against chaos, confusion and anarchy in the wake of the ruling that state legislatures must be reapportioned on a population basis, administration leaders were losing hope for adjourning next Saturday.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said indications are mounting that Congress will have to return after recessing for the Democratic National Convention which opens Aug. 24 in Atlantic City, N.J.

By way of strengthening this prospect, Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he intends to force a showdown no matter how long it takes.

Both House and Senate were locked in the battle over moves by Dirksen to delay or block the court's one-man, one-vote ruling.

Dirksen told reporters he has been informed that liberal Democrats opposing his move intend to try to talk it to death.

"I suppose they will keep the talk rolling until we have to come back into session after the Democratic convention," he said. "I don't care how long it takes. I'm going to get a vote on this matter."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., one of those who want the court decision to stand, was asked at a news conference if there will be a filibuster. Hart said that is a possibility but there has been no agreement to filibuster.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., who is scheduled to deliver the keynote address at the Atlantic City convention, pleaded against trying to "shove down the President's throat" a bipartisan plan to hold off court action in redistricting cases.

of "practical matters," a consolidation program would not be implemented from the local level.

"The small schools in the rural communities are more than schools," he noted. "They are social centers for the activities in the communities. Would you, as a local school board member, vote to close one of your schools?"

The superintendents committee, he said, also was considering recommending to the state board that state funds be distributed on a pupil-teacher ratio to schools in parishes where the boards refuse to consolidate.

"A more drastic recommendation being considered is for the state board to refuse to recognize the schools that refuse to consolidate and refuse to issue diplomas," he said.

But Odom emphasized that the recommendations were still under consideration.

"If we are going to continue each year to educate more children, we must either find ways to improve the expenditure of our funds or more taxes will have to be levied," he explained.

But Odom said that because

Fuzzy Words Of Demos Hit By Goldwater

Nuclear Rumors Not Intentional, Arizonan Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican presidential candidate Barry M. Goldwater said Friday he had not intended to imply that President Johnson had authorized the use of nuclear weapons in the Southeast Asian crisis.

At the same time, it was learned that U.S. forces retaliating against North Vietnamese torpedo boat attacks were specifically ordered to use "conventional ordnance only," not nuclear weapons.

GOLDWATER STATEMENTS

Both developments stemmed from statements Goldwater made at a news conference in Hershey, Pa., concerning the Southeast Asian action. The senator and the administration have been making counterstatements ever since.

Goldwater told newsmen Friday that in his remarks at Hershey, he was only criticizing what he called fuzzy language used by administration officials. If the President and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara want to charge him with imprecise statements advocating use of nuclear weapons, he said, "They have got to be more precise in their language."

But following rebuttals of Goldwater's Hershey statement by the White House, McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, it was learned Friday that last week's U.S. air strikes in North Viet Nam were limited to conventional weapons, with any nuclear attack specifically ruled out.

This order was specified in orders to the U.S. 7th Fleet from the commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, it was learned, and the restriction was based on "clear instructions" from Washington. This presumably meant Johnson, Rusk and McNamara.

Man Vents Mad Spell By Dozing

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — A construction worker is accused of using a bulldozer in vengeance for losing his job and causing more than $500 damage.

State police said Edward Hack, 40, of Voorheesville, near Albany, raised havoc Thursday on the new campus project of Skidmore College, on the outskirts of this racing resort.

Smarting at his discharge earlier in the day, police said, Hack returned, leaped upon the seat of the bulldozer and tore around the grounds for nearly half an hour. A college spokesman estimated the damage at more than $500.

Police and the college's project manager said first Hack rammed a toolshed, pushing it off its foundation, while a workman was inside. Next, he knocked over lumber piles and pushed earth back into foundation ditches for the college field house.

Two laborers were in one ditch and had to run to escape. Two city police cars arrived, but police were wary of driving in front of the bulldozer to stop it. State police persuaded Hack to halt the machine.

Arraigned before a justice of the peace on a charge of malicious mischief, Hack was released in $250 bond, pending a hearing.

Tornado Dips Near Kaplan

KAPLAN, La. (AP)—An out of season tornado dragged its deadly tail through this flat coastal region Friday but there were no immediate reports of injury or damage.

Apparently the twister spent its force in swamp lands.

Vermilion Parish sheriff's deputies said the funnel swayed along about 10 miles south of Kaplan for nearly 15 minutes before lifting. It touched down again between Maurice and Youngsville, a few miles to the northeast, for about three minutes.

The second twister was trailed by television newsmen from Lafayette and also reported by a pilot.

The weather bureau said the severe weather disturbance that spawned the tornadoes was dissipating as it moved inland.

Federal Pay Increase Bill Inked By LBJ

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson signed into law Friday a $558 million bill raising the pay of every federal civilian employee except himself. He ranked the measure "near the top of the list in importance to the entire country."

RETAIN EXCELLENCE

The increases averaging 5.5 per cent will "reward and retain excellence in our federal service," the President said before signing the legislation in a ceremony attended by members of Congress and government officials in the White House rose garden.

Declaring that the new pay scales will be "reasonably comparable with those of private life," Johnson at the same time cautioned federal employees that taxpayers have a right to expect "a full dollar's value for every dollar spent."

The bill was the second pay measure signed by Johnson this week. Two days ago he made official a $207 million increase for members of the military forces.

Friday's measure raises the pay of House and Senate members $7,500 a year to $30,000 beginning next year. For the 1.7 million government clerks, messengers, postmen and other workers, the effective date goes back to early July.

The congressional increases almost killed higher pay for all when an election-year wary House voted down last March a proposal to increase congressmen's pay by $10,000 a year.

Cloudy Skies Slated Today

Generally cloudy skies will continue to spread over the area today and Sunday with scattered thundershowers, mostly in the afternoon, forecast.

Pleasant but humid temperatures are the outlook for the weekend with 94 predicted to be the highest. Night readings will be in the low 70's. Friday's high was 90 with an early morning low 62 degrees.

Off-and-on showers sprinkled the area Friday with rainfall varying from barely dampening to fairly good downpours. The FAA at Selman Field, Monroe, recorded .02 inches.

Winds will be variable 5-15 miles per hour.

DEMO CONVENTION TALKS

Dixie Governors Hold Closed Meet

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — With rare haste and secrecy, five southern governors conversed on a hotel suite Friday and mapped their strategy for the Democratic national convention just ten days away.

The governors of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas and Florida put a "confidential" lid on their talks and refused to discuss details of the southern summit meeting.

The five head Democratic party administrations in states where sentiment is running strong for the Republican presidential nominee, Barry Goldwater.

MCKEITHEN HOST

Gov. John McKeithen of Louisiana played host at a downtown hotel suite, guarded by three state policemen. The five chief executives braved a summer thunderstorm to reach New Orleans, and Alabama Gov. George Wallace was the last to arrive at mid-day.

Wallace, asked for comment on the surprise gathering, told newsmen: "I didn't know you people knew about this." He said he doesn't know whether he will go to the convention, but will talk later.

Gov. Paul Johnson of Mississippi said he isn't going to Atlantic City for the convention that opens Aug. 24. McKeithen hasn't made up his mind whether to go.

Govs. Orval Faubus of Arkansas and Farris Bryant of Florida will lead their state delegations to the convention for the nomination of Pres. Johnson as the Democratic party candidate.

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese government militia turning the tables on the Communists, have successfully ambushed a force of Red guerrillas south of Saigon, a Defense Ministry spokesman said Friday night.

The spokesman said 12 Communists were killed when the government forces ambushed a platoon of Viet Cong guerrillas Thursday 13 miles northwest of the town of Rach Gia, south of Saigon.

CRYPTIC MESSAGES SENT

Letters To Lovelorn Aided Prison Break

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard theorized Friday that the spectacular jailbreak of train robber Charles Wilson was set up by cryptic messages in a newspaper's lovemorn column.

A just-released jailmate said, however, that fellow prisoners believed Wilson was kidnapped by a rival gang that wanted to force him to reveal where the $5 million loot was hidden.

The ad appeared in the London Daily Mail on Tuesday only hours before a daredevil gang spirited Wilson, 32, out of his maximum security cell at Birmngham's Winson Prison.

It said: "W-in-W almost at breaking point. Cott 11:30 today please. 4 roses."

Cypriot Calls For Rescue From Plight

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The Turkish Cypriot leader, Dr. Fazil Kuchuk, has called on Turkey for political leverage to lift a Greek Cypriot blockade off his people. He said Friday the bread supply in Nicosia is threatened and he is certain isolated villagers have nothing.

The U.N. peace force commander, Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya of India, said he has received conflicting reports about that aspect of the communal struggle and has ordered a thorough investigation.

"I'm not very sure myself about this blockade," Thimayya said. "Some say the Turkish Cypriots are on the point of starvation. Others say not."

PRIVATE ARMY

While U.N. Secretary-General U Thant sought soldiers to boost the 6,200-man peace force to a ceiling of about 7,000, hundreds of young Greeks lined up in Athens to enlist in a private army for support of the cause of Greek Cypriot President Archbishop Makarios.

This force is being recruited by John Koutscheras, a deputy in the Greek Parliament who is a member of Premier George Papandreu's Center Union coalition. Koutscheras calls it "the sacred brigade," taking over the name of a long-disbanded Greek army brigade that served in the Middle East in World War II.

France came out with a declaration that the Cyprus problem should be settled through an accord between Greece and Turkey. That is in line with the thinking of Premier Ismet Inonu's Turkish government.

Speaking in Paris less than 24 hours after Greece rejected a Turkish proposal for direct negotiations, a spokesman for President Charles de Gaulle's Cabinet said France is willing to help reach an understanding between Athens and Ankara.

The spokesman declared the agreements by which Cyprus won independence from Britain in 1960 are outdated.

These agreements were negotiated by Britain, Greece and Turkey. They were declared acceptable at the time by both the Greek Cypriots, who make up 80 per cent of Cyprus' 600,000 people, and the Turkish Cypriots. A move by Makarios last year to modify minority rights through constitutional amendment was a factor in the hostilities that erupted last December.

Separate news conferences of Kuchuk and Thimayya in Nicosia touched on diverse aspects of the struggle, limited militarily for five days by a U.N.-sponsored cease-fire.

Kuchuk told reporters "Turkey must find political means to raise the blockade — I am not asking for any attack."

The vice president of the republic who has taken no part in the government for nine months, Kuchuk said lack of kerosene will force bakeries in the Turkish quarter of the capital to close in two days.

"Thirty-five thousand people will start to go hungry," he said. "We are bread eaters. Bread is necessary to us. We do not have communications everywhere and I am certain there are villages even now with absolutely nothing."

Thimayya talked with reporters later at his first formal news conference since he assumed the U.N. command in the island.

Davis defeated Lewis L. Morgan to win his first term as Louisiana's governor. J. Emile Verrett served as his lieutenant governor during that term. The late Earl K. Long was Morgan's running mate in that contest and was defeated by Verrett.

How long will a bank hold a savings account if the owner does not present the pass book for processing?

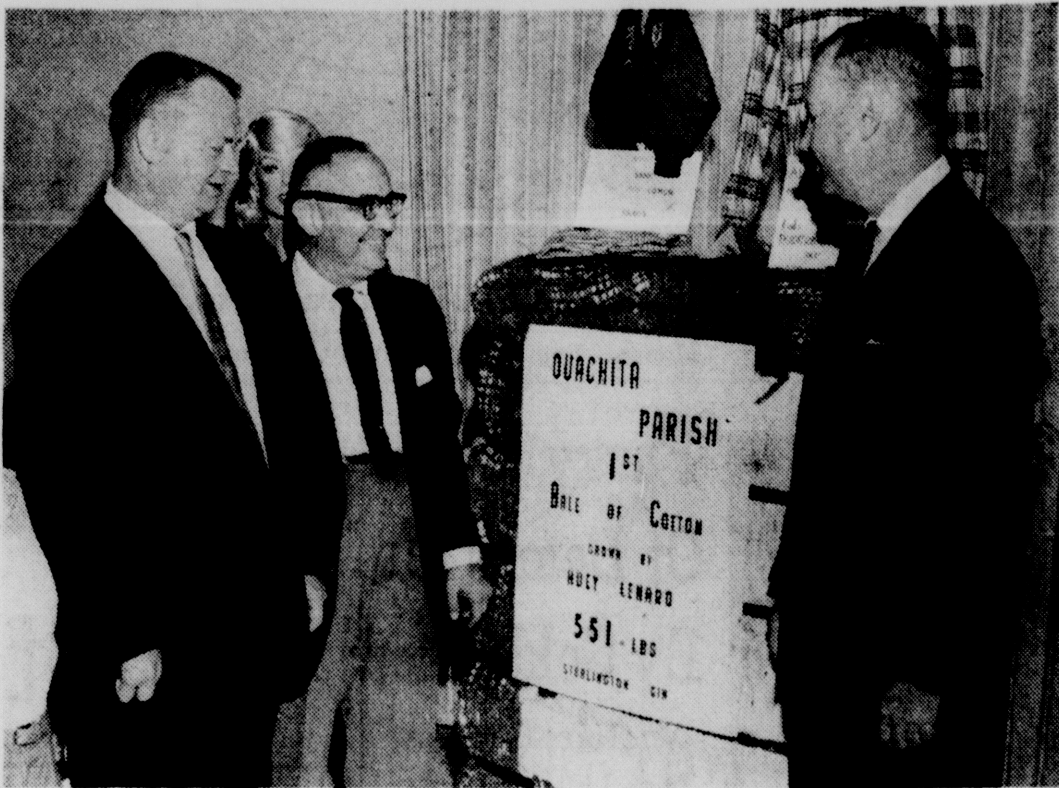

A bank allows the holder of a savings account to make transactions dealing with that account without presentation of the pass book. The pass book, which holds records of deposits and withdrawals, does speed up banking business, however. If the holder makes no effort — with or without the pass book — to remove the account, and the account is held by the bank for a fairly great number of years, it is placed on the "dormant ledger" and is charged a small amount for servicing. According to a local bank official, such practices are common, but an account is kept for a great many years, with variance according to the bank at hand, before it is placed on the dormant ledger.

When a husband and wife become divorced and the ex-wife has her former husband's name granted her by the judge in the divorce decree, can she legally use that name instead of her maiden name when remarrying?

When remarrying, a woman divorcee should sign her given name, maiden name, and married name of the first husband to the license after such has been granted her in the divorce decree. This is common practice.

It is illegal for an individual from Arkansas to be administrator to an estate in Louisiana, according to local legal consultants.

man of the agricultural committee of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce; George Moses, president of the chamber; and Lee Vanderpool, president of the Ouachita Bank. The bale will be auctioned Wednesday, Aug. 19 in the bank lobby. (Staff Photo by Ben Bradford)

Plans Made For Sale Of Initial Bale

Final plans have been completed for the annual auction of Ouachita Parish's first bale of cotton on Wednesday, Aug. 19, at 10:30 a.m. in the lobby of Ouachita Bank. John Adair, Monroe Chamber of Commerce agricultural chairman, said.

Ike Hamilton, longtime cattle and cotton auctioneer, will call for bids at the 21st annual auction.

Local firms are participating as sponsors of the event, Adair said, by donating $10 each to boost the value of the bale at the auction.

"We are indeed grateful to these sponsors for their interest and financial support of the sale," the chairman said.

In addition to the support of these sponsors the local merchants bid generously for the privilege of buying the first bale. Traditionally the number one bale brings a large premium price above the normal market value.

Sponsors are Adair GMC, Inc., Central Savings Bank and Trust Co., Cloverleaf Dairy, Dew Music Co., Federal Compress and Warehouse Co., First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Monroe, First National Bank, Frances Hotel, Friendly Finance, Gay Clothing Co., Kellogg-Moore Oil Co., Louisiana Power & Light Co., Montgomery Ward, News-Star-World Publishing Corp., OZO Plantation, J. C. Penney Co., Scott Truck and Tractor Co., Sears Roebuck and Co., Sherouse Realty Co., Silverstein's, Southern Bell Telephone Co., Steele Motors, J. F. Stone Cotton Co., Tyner-Petrus Co. and Union Oil Mill.

The 551-pound bale, representing Ouachita's first ginned bale of the 1964 cotton season was grown by Huey Leonard of West Ouachita Parish and ginned by the Sterlington Gin. This is his first prize-winning bale and was hand picked from four of the 207 acres he planted in cotton.

Agriculture officials said that the bale was from a unique type cotton, DeKalb hybrid, which is only two years old. There is probably less than 300 acres of this type planted in the parish this year.

Farm Bureau To Oppose Reseating

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — About 125 farm bureau officials, in emergency meeting here, said today they oppose any move to reapportion the state senate at this time.

Reapportionment would place the senate seating on a population basis. Rural forces, who have held legislative power for decades, are fighting it.

"No action should be taken by any state until Congress acts on this matter," said James Graugnard, Louisiana Farm Bureau president.

He referred to a proposed constitutional amendment in Congress that would empower states with two legislative chambers to apportion the membership of one on acres instead of people. The state House was reapportioned by population last year.

Graugnard said Senate apportionment by population would serve to cripple the farmers. He said the Special Legislative Committee on Reapportionment would be unwise to act before Congress makes its decision.

Walter L. Randolph of Montgomery, Ala., American Farm Bureau vice president, told the meeting "there is nothing to warrant" the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision for reapportionment.

State Sen. Danny Roy Moore of rural Claiborne Parish, a member of the Special Legislative Committee, told the session:

BOARD SHOWS RESULTS

New Jobs Created In LaSalle Parish

JENA (Special) — A recent study by the LaSalle Parish Development Board shows that new business and industry have created 80 permanent and 265 temporary jobs over the past six months. These figures are conservative and do not reflect growth of established businesses, F. H. Sheil of Jena, secretary of the board, said.

The influx of new activity brought about a more prosperous economy and with it came a problem new to the parish: a housing shortage.

The Jena and Olla areas are particularly in need of two and three bedroom homes for rent. Apartments are in demand all over the parish.

The Development Board also compiled a list of new businesses and how they contributed to employment and tax assessment in the parish.

In terms of jobs, the Louisiana-American Gas Co. booster station under construction at Nebo heads the list. About 150 people are working on the station now and eight will remain as permanent employees.

United Gas also is building a booster station between Olla and Urania that is near the size of the one near Nebo. Sixty people are on the construction crew and, as at the other station, eight people will be full time.

The combined value of these two projects will add at least $1,000,000 to parish assessment rolls, a seven per cent increase over the present total. Overall assessments in the parish are expected to be 10 per cent high by next year.

Other additions to the industrial community are the Schlumberger Well Surveying Corp. office, the Cities Service Well Core Service, the Bell Core Laboratory and Griffith Rental Tool Co., all in Jena.

Both the Schlumberger and Cities Services offices, recently opened, employ 12 people permanently. Bell has one employee and Griffith has six.

H&K Industries in Olla, a broom and mop handle manufacturing plant, employs 12 people and is the first concrete accomplishment of the Olla Development Corp.

Also in Olla, is the Olla Slave Mill with 15 workers.

Several new retail businesses have been opened in Jena, the parish seat, and many others have moved to new quarters.

The Development Board foresees a continuing expansion for the parish and expects bright long term prospects.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House on Friday voted an increase in funds for college student loans in passing a bill extending and broadening the National Defense Education Act.

As part of the measure, the House also extended for one year the program of federal grants to school districts that are affected by federal activities. This is commonly called the impacted areas program.

A voice vote returned the bill to the Senate, which passed a similar one two weeks ago.

Led by Rep. Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., Republicans put through a series of amendments that cut down on the new programs that had been included in the National Defense Education Act by the Democrats on the Education and Labor Committee.

The amendments were accepted without opposition by Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., manager of the bill. They had been worked out in bipartisan meetings since the committee approved the bill last July 29 over solid Republican opposition.

As finally approved, the bill extended the act until June 30, 1967.

DEMOCRAT CONVENTION

Platform Chairman Expects No Fights

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Democratic Platform Committee, Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, foresees no major fights when the group meets next week to outline the party's stand.

Though he doesn't say it, his own even-tempered personality and the respect in which he is held by fellow Democrats is good insurance against any wounding intraparty squabbles. Albert is expected to bring to the platform job the same qualities he has shown as majority leader of the House. These are a sure knowledge of parliamentary procedure and an occasional flash of fire stemming from his beginnings as a boy orator.

President Johnson is reported to want a plank condemning extremists of the right and left, and there is little doubt that he will get it.

One of the most bruising fights at the Republican convention in San Francisco was over efforts of the liberal wing of the party to insert a plank condemning by name the John Birch Society, the Ku Klux Klan and the Communist party. The convention, dominated by presidential candidate Barry Goldwater, rejected it.

Another Republican convention battle came over a civil rights plank. Again, the word "enforcement" as applied to the Civil Rights Act was rejected in favor of a milder approach.

The Democrats, in spite of the party's Southern wing, have in the past approved civil rights planks that even militant Negro leaders regarded as satisfactory.

In both these areas, the Democratic committee next week can be expected to try to make as sharp a contrast as possible with the Republican platform.

The committee meets in Washington the first three days of the week, then shifts to Atlantic City, N.J., where the convention will be held the following week.

Albert hopes to attend as many of the meetings as he can, but he may have to shuttle back to his congressional duties in Washington at the end of the week. He is expected to disclose more details at a news conference today.

At 56, Albert has come a long way from Bugtussle, Okla., the little coal mine town where he was born and where he went to a one-room schoolhouse. The place is now called Flowery Mount.

Along the way he won several national oratorical contests, a Rhodes scholarship, and a Bronze Star in World War II.

Albert is a rotund, blue-eyed little man, standing just 5 feet 4 inches. Since he became majority leader three years ago, an odd little patch of white hair has shown up on his otherwise brown-thatched head.

Washington Star columnist Mary McGroarty once wrote that Albert looked like a "worried teddy bear," and the description seemed to fit.

Woman Dies After Wreck In Catahoula

SICILY ISLAND (Special) — An 18-year-old Sicily Island woman, Mrs. Irma Lee Morris, one of nine persons in a car which wrecked near here Thursday afternoon, died Friday morning at a Ferriday hospital.

Also seriously injured but reported "holding his own" is Ricky Addison, 4, of Lufkin, Tex. He is at Jefferson Davis Memorial Hospital at Natchez, Miss.

Investigating state trooper Sgt. E. H. Nelson said the car, driven by Ernest Morris, 44, of Lufkin, was traveling at a high rate of speed when it apparently went out of control on a curve on state highway 8 about three miles west of here.

Nelson said the car caromed into a ditch, hit a culvert and a utility pole. The dead woman was thrown from the car, he said.

Others in the car but not seriously injured were Opal Morris, 44, Judy Morris, 2, Betty Sue Morris, 7, Ronald Morris, 11, Barbara Addison, 23, and Carl Addison, 3.

The accident happened shortly after 3 p.m. Others helping in the investigation were Catahoula Parish sheriff's deputies A. H. Guyon, Keith Ford and Perry Stubbs.

Funeral services for Mrs. Morris will be at 2 p.m. today at New Hope Pentecostal Church near Sicily Island with the Rev. W. R. Cripps officiating. Burial will be at New Pine Hill Cemetery by Young Funeral Home of Ferriday.

Survivors include her husband, E. W. Morris Jr.; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Richardson of Sicily Island; four brothers, James Alfred Richardson, John Earl Richardson, Danny, Ray Richardson and David Richardson, and a sister, Mrs. Bennie Ratcliff, all of Sicily Island.

Mire Of Contempt

In seeking out causes of violent demonstrations in the more heavily populated sections of the United States, many observers look for various social conditions which could serve as a springboard.

A writer for the Boston Herald gave several quotations from speakers who fanned the flames of racial hatred in Harlem's recent riots, then turned his editorial guns on rent gougers, second-rate public schools, unfair employment practices and squalor as the real underlying causes.

The riots cannot be considered as figurative "bombs" made by some and lit by others. If conditions are bad, that is one thing. But to fall prey to professional agitators who work to undermine law and order is another.

When an inflammatory statement such as the following from a representative of the Congress of Racial Equality is tossed out to a mob, we can well imagine the results:

"Forty-five per cent of the cops in New York are neurotic murderers."

The contempt for law and order is certainly one of the driving forces behind today's troubles. And J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, made an observation on the origins of this contempt in a recent issue of the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin. He addressed his remarks to the millions of high school and college graduates now entering the ranks of working society:

"Are poisonous bacteria being injected into the vital bloodstream of the American way of life? Are citizens being subjected to tranquilizing doses of subtle ridicule and calculated defiance of constituted authority, law and order?"

The answer to Hoover's question is certainly "Yes." Confirmation that such "poisonous bacteria" are indeed being circulated may be found in those films, plays and books that depict the free American system as decadent, inept and incompetent. Impressionable young people, who have the whole — apparently complex — path ahead of them are especially susceptible to the germs of such false ideas. And eventually, these are the very persons who must wear the mantle of national and community leadership.

Director Hoover has no complaint against the inherent rights of public criticism and freedom of speech and expression. Nor does he wish to see a program of literary and dramatic censorship. But he is aghast — as are so many thinking and feeling Americans — that freedom of speech should be so perverted and misused by today's would-be crusaders.

Indeed, some of these writers would sneer at the very U.S. Constitution that guarantees them the right to set their misguided thoughts to print.

"My objection," writes the FBI director, "is against the wholesale defilement and universal downgrading of our treasured freedoms and institutions — and time-tested attributes of democracy which are manifested in a representative government ruled by law."

If there are certain "bacteria" that spread into street violence in the larger cities, their spawning ground lies in contempt. Over the years, many people have worked their way out of squalor and abuse. But they never accomplished this through a spirit of contempt.

Volatile social conditions do exist in this country and in others. They are not all of a racial nature by any means. Certainly there are constructive means of working these out within the framework of law and order, especially in the United States.

Facing Responsibility

On several occasions in the past we have expressed disappointment over the large number of young men, who, for one reason or another, have been rejected as unfit for military service.

Still more disappointing is the small percentage of those so rejected who take advantage of the government's efforts to help them.

During the first three months after this government training program was instituted, 134,500 youths were offered help. Of that number, only 189 have been placed in training programs.

Jobs were found for another 2,200. But many of these did not last long in their positions. Only 17.5 per cent of the rejected draftees even took the trouble to reply to letters telling them where they might get help.

It's rather amazing — but to his credit — that Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz admitted that part of the blame for this condition lies with governmental bureaucracy. Selective Service officials kept the addresses of those rejected in confidential files, thus Labor Department counselors could not contact them.

'Rights' Supporter Loses

We don't usually think of Utah as being a pivotal state where civil rights issues are spotlighted. Yet Representative Sherman P. Lloyd, a Republican from that western state, has blamed his vote for the bill in Congress as a factor that helped defeat him in a primary bid for the U.S. Senate.

Lloyd has a fairly high — 78 per cent — scoring in his support of legislation considered conservative. So it's possible that his own conclusion regarding his pro-civil rights vote is correct. His opponent, Ernest L. Wilkinson, former president of Brigham Young University, made an issue of Lloyd's vote for the bill in Congress, saying the new law could lead to a "police state."

In the South, this opinion has been stated and restated since the so-called "reconstruction" period following the Civil War. More recently, there has been an awakening as to the dangers of such a law in the larger cities of the North and East where there are increasing upswings in the Negro population.

But several of the western states such as Utah are able to view the situation from a more objective point of view. Why, then, did the change occur at the polls.

The defeated aspirant said the blow he felt most was in a newspaper advertisement that boasted Wilkinson, the former university president "would vote 100 per cent against increasing the power of the federal government."

So it was probably within this framework that the civil rights issue figured at all in the Utah primary.

BASCOM TIMMONS

If Humphrey Gets Second Spot He Can Say It Was Not Easy

IF SENATOR Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota turns out to be President Johnson's choice for the Vice Presidential nomination, he can say that he made it the hard way.

Some Democrats still doubt that he will be chosen but the remaining list of possibilities has narrowed to a point where he probably comes closest to filling the President's prescription of "a man experienced in foreign relations and domestic affairs."

THE TWINKLE in Johnson's eye must have been visible to his associates when he left the political world confused on July 31 by knocking off the Vice Presidential tree with one shake all of the apples representing members of his administration of cabinet rank or equivalent — six in all.

Weighing the backgrounds of other possible picks, Humphrey's qualifications loom largest, though questioned by Democratic campaign planners in some particulars. He first came to national public notice in 1948 as one of those who forced a strong civil rights plank into the Democratic platform of that year, which precipitated the long remembered walkout of several southern delegations and the party split which followed, costing the Truman-Barkley ticket 39 southern electoral votes in five states.

He was elected to the Senate in the same year, came to Washington, as he admits, with no money and few friends. He has been known since as a liberal. That designation handicapped him with the Senate "establishment" earlier, until he was given his first recognition by Senator Lyndon Johnson, then Senate majority whip.

JOHNSON, known for his loyalty to friends who have helped him could consider that in picking his Vice President. When President Kennedy entered the White House, he picked Humphrey at once to floor manage the civil rights bill. Now he is more closely associated with the act than any elected Democrat, which is appreciated by Johnson but not by the wide sweep of normally Democratic voters in the South.

Some Democratic leaders have knowingly predicted that Johnson would never pick Humphrey because of his civil rights record, and they may be right. But the Humphrey Senate career ties in so closely with Johnson's that others can't see the President passing him over.

Johnson and Humphrey were two sides of what was described as the "triangle" of top younger Democratic Senators who came down to the wire at the Los Angeles convention in 1960. The third side of the triangle, John F. Kennedy, had better organization than the two. But Humphrey who had been soundly defeated in the important Wisconsin and West Virginia primaries by Kennedy, was figured as more friendly to Johnson.

HIS FRIENDS hoped that Kennedy would pick him for the Vice Presidential spot. Then the future President after weighing all factors, persuaded Johnson to run with him.

However, Humphrey by then had emerged from the long hard pull, with both Kennedy and Johnson, his two former Senate colleagues, on his side. Even before Johnson became President, Humphrey credited him with giving him more help than any other member of the Senate. They have worked together with great consistency.

Lyndon Johnson must have done much to teach the once flamboyant Minnesota Senator how to make himself more popular with his colleagues. But it took some doing. In 1958 making an early stab for the Presidency, Humphrey went to Moscow on his own and boasted that he had spent 8 hours talking to Nikita Khrushchev. He dropped hints all the way back that he was returning with a secret message for President Eisenhower, in which Khrushchev conveyed some information about new rockets. Ike conferred with him briefly and Khrushchev later ridiculed the whole incident.

HUMPHREY is a qualified pharmacist, and is often described as a druggist, though he did not spend much time at the drug counter. Among his degrees (as quoted from the Congressional Directory) are a Master of Arts from the "University of Louisiana," evidently referring to Louisiana State but that probably wouldn't increase his appeal to the voters of Louisiana.

Senator Soaper Says

It's a great blow to American folklore, but our investigation indicates that a man with $200 worth of equipment is very likely to catch more fish than a little boy with a can of worms and a bent pin.

Politicians are always telling us that they want challenges, the tougher the better, but so far none seems to have volunteered for "Stop L.B.J. at Atlantic City" movement.

Congressman Sludgepump represents his opponents' tactics in leveling charges they can't prove. And he doesn't particularly appreciate the ones they can prove either.

God's invitation to the impossible is out to every individual believer. "Is there anything too hard for the Lord?"

Letter From Udall Ignores Question

ON JULY 9, I wrote a letter to Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall. It took Mr. Udall 29 days to answer me, but I believe that the exchange of communications is of more than casual public interest. For it shows that the present Administration not only will allow political smears to be uttered on government property — as long as they are aimed at the Republican opposition — but that it is ready to sacrifice what was a firm rule of fairness by condoning these practices.

Here is what I wrote to Mr. Udall:

"IN HIS current appearance at Carter Barron Memorial Amphitheater, the singer Harry Belafonte took the opportunity to launch a vicious public attack on Senator Barry Goldwater, charging that he favored slavery and implying that he was a member of the KKK (Ku Klux Klan). "You and I will agree that Mr. Belafonte has a right to free speech, whether his utterances are false or true. The Carter Barron Amphitheater is the property of all Americans, however, and administered by you as part of the National Park Service.

"Is it your policy to allow the use of this facility for partisan political attacks? If it is not, are any steps being taken to prevent any further abuse of the government's hospitality? Will Mr. Belafonte — or any entertainer of any political persuasion — be barred from use of Carter Barron or any other government facility if he intends to use it as a soap box?"

I had expected that Secretary Udall would have double-talked me to death in his answer. But I was naive. For it is Mr. Udall's policy — and the Administration's, for that matter — to allow the use of government facilities for scurrilous political attacks on those who oppose the Liberal Establishment.

HERE IS Mr. Udall's answer. It is the kind of shocker which in another time would have caused a first-class ruckus in Washington. To begin with, Mr. Udall ignored the nasty nature of Belafonte's comments and simply characterized them as "remarks" on Senator Goldwater's "position on civil rights legislation." Then he added:

"In our view, statements made by Mr. Belafonte during his performances are more correctly characterized as nonpartisan political comments in that they were directed against an opponent of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 without regard to his party affiliation. As you know, this legislation had broad support from both parties.

"Comment on economic, social, and political issues is not uncommon in the entertainment field. It is our concept of the freedoms protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States that such comment ought not to be subject to Government censorship, even when occurring during the course of a performance in a publicly-owned facility."

Then comes the self-serving statement, missing the point deliberately. "We hope that, upon reconsideration, you would agree that a performer's right to the exercise of free speech would include his right to use topical satire on the theatrical stage."

MR. UDALL knows that Harry Belafonte has a perfect right to make his attacks anywhere he pleases "on the theatrical stage." But in the past, the government has ruled out the use of its facilities for partisan purposes. There are millions of Americans of both parties who disagree with Mr. Belafonte. They have a right to demand that government property set aside for entertainment not be used for purposes which run counter to their views and interests.

Like many of the "new breed" of politicians, however, Mr. Udall believes that since this side controls the Federal government it can be used for its own purposes, without regard for majorities or minorities that disapprove. Mr. Belafonte's performance was a shocking one. People had gone to the amphitheater in Rock Creek Park to hear music and singing — not to be called names. The Secretary of the Interior, however, believes that this was good clean fun.

Had an entertainer used the Carter Barron Amphitheater to charge that President Lyndon Johnson was a Communist or a drunk, would Mr. Udall have been so calm about it? Would he have piously invoked the Bill of Rights? I was naive to write to him, but I'm not that naive. There would have been a howl and immediate promises that this would never happen again.

WHAT MR. Udall's letter demonstrates is the complete breakdown in standards and moral values that afflicts the nation's capital.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY JR.

Pope Paul Takes Stand On Atheism

NO ONE denied the saintliness of Pope John the 23rd, and that in part was the trouble. Something about the universal adulation caused, in a few rigorous minds and anxious hearts, a few cautionary misgivings. Not about that saintliness, which no one who mattered could doubt. But about the motility of his admirers — who, opportunized on the openhandedness of the Pope's generosity, which tempted so many squalid little ideologues to move lithely into his warm embrace, precisely in order to do mischief under the cover of its ample and generous folds.

Thus when Pope John so conspicuously failed, in his famous encyclical Mater et Magistra, and in the subsequent encyclical Pacem in Terris, to speak explicitly about the evils of Communism, many men were thrilled by what they chose to construe as a transcendent tolerance. And so, many Communists, and many peace mongers who have consistently expressed their preference for being Red over being dead, obsequiously hailed the Pope as the apostle of a new view of things, as the great spirit who had buried the rancor implicit and explicit in the exhorting denunciations of Communists and their works uttered by his predecessors Pius XI and XII.

The great question of course was whether the successor to ratify the apparent sea — no evil hear — no evil attitude of John, or whether he would brake his Church back to political reality and remark with the eyes that God gave him those grisly realities which are at the root of that part of human wretchedness that is the result of man's battle not against nature, which is by contrast so easy to tame, but against man, whose delirious and ingenious ambitions cause more human suffering than ever did plagues, or hunger, or earthquakes.

THE NEW Pope has spoken now, in a momentous encyclical, devoted primarily to careful theological distinctions, of the kind that are designed to control and guide the passions of the ecumenical council. But the encyclical contains clear references to the questions vexed by the enigmatic silence of Pope John. (How curious that, by and large, the same group of people who are busy condemning what they understood as the silence of Pius XII over the fate of the Jews under Hitler, acclaimed what they understood as the silence of Pope John over the fate of Christians and Jews under Khrushchev and Mao!) Not only has Paul recondemned Communism by name, he has gone to some pains to explain to those of his predecessor's admirers who held that Pope John had reasoned that a gulf now existed between an evil, "Communism," and non-evil "Communists," were quite wrong in their interpretation. With tact but with firmness he has said them nay.

The ideologues, who deny God, and deny themselves God, "compel us, as they compelled our predecessors and, with them, everyone who has religious values at heart, to condemn the ideological systems which deny God and oppress the church, systems which are often identified with economic, social and political regime amongst which atheistic Communism is the chief."

How, then, to deal with the Communists? The co-existors seized exultantly upon Pope John's interview with Adzhubei, the son-in-law of Khrushchev, as suggesting that here was the way, the patient exchange of opinion with the enemy, at closest quarters.

"DIALOGUE," says Pope Paul, "in such conditions is very difficult, not to say impossible," although, even today, we have no preconceived intention of excluding the persons who profess these systems, and belong to these regimes." But the lack of freedom every Communist suffers from "puts an end to dialogue." The church of silence, for example, "the persecuted Christian faith within the Iron Curtain — speaks only by her sufferings, and with her speaks also the suffering of an oppressed and degraded society, in which the rights of the spirit are crushed by those who control its fate."

Dam Repair Is Completed At Cheniere

The breaks which occurred in Cheniere Lake Dam several weeks ago have been repaired, according to Jessie Brantley, lake supervisor.

Rainwater will be used to refill the lake which is down to 1 1/2 feet, Brantley said. He said that repairs on the dam had necessitated lowering the water.

Cement was used to fill a hole in the dam after levees were built on both sides of the dam to contain the water.

Cheniere Lake Commission, Ouachita Parish Police Jury, Tensas Levee Board and the Department of Public Works all helped to repair the dam.

The supervisor said that Hobson Norris supplied the dirt for the repair job. Norris is one of the seven members of the lake commission.

The Ouachita Wildlife Unit requested that the lake be cleaned and Brantley said that since the water is down the unit will get its wish.

"We can get to a lot of places now that we couldn't reach before," Brantley said. "We'll clean up the levee and around the public areas where the water has gone down."

The lake, which is owned by Ouachita Parish, is governed by the commission under the jurisdiction of the Police Jury.

WESTERN CAMPAIGN TOUR

Mrs. Johnson Talks With Plains Indians

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson came west Friday and carried a soft-sell political campaign for her husband's administration to the Plains Indians.

And she found a place "where at last I am among people who probably won't find my name, Lady Bird, unusual."

At the huge Crow Reservation, 65 miles east of Billings, her guides on a bus tour were named Joe Medicinecrow, Barney Old Coyote and John Woodlegs.

The Indians saw to it that the President's wife could really do some soft-shoeing. They found out her size — a narrow "7 1/2 quad" — and made her a special pair of moccasins.

Mrs. Johnson spent seven hours on a plane as she started her four-day, 4,200-mile trip to the states of Montana, Wyoming and Utah, predominately conservative territory. En route she made it clear she would mix politics with her sightseeing.

At the reservation east of here she put in a plug for the efforts of Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who she said had directed his department to "chart a 10-year plan to combat the want that exists in many (Indian) reservations."

"My husband," she said in a speech prepared for a gathering of Crow and Cheyenne, "asked me to bring you his warm personal greetings and to convey to you his concern with the problems you have."

The First Lady assured them, "You do not carry them alone."

President Johnson, she added, had not forgotten a pledge he made to an Indian group last January that their needs and concerns would get top priority in his war on poverty.

Udall, who traveled with the First Lady, predicted Johnson and Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., "will get a strong Indian vote because of the rapport we have established with them."

The first day of Mrs. Johnson's journey spanned 18 hours from her 7 a.m. departure from Washington to her arrival to spend the night at Jackson Lake Lodge in the scenic Grand Teton National Park.

A crowd of nearly 2,000 greeted her at the Billings airport in brilliant sunshine.

It had been a colorful day and residents of Jackson, Wyo., even planned for a sheriff's posse to meet her and give her a ride in a fringe-topped surrey.

Her trip was taking her into strongly conservative territory and Mrs. Johnson got in licks for Democratic candidates, starting by boosting Sen. Mansfield in a speech at the Billings airport.

Four Negroes Set To Enroll At St. Helena

GREENSBURG, La. (AP) — School Supt. J. L. Meadows of St. Helena Parish said Friday four Negroes will enroll next week in all-white Greensburg High School.

Meadows said five Negro applicants were denied transfer after they did not meet the criteria set down in a desegregation order by U.S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West in Baton Rouge.

The superintendent would not give the names of the Negroes and said they would be notified Saturday. The school board has until noon Saturday to consider the transfer requests.

All nine of the Negro applicants, Meadows said, sought transfer to Greensburg High. The small rural parish has two other white high schools, one for Negroes.

White students registered Friday. Actual classroom work begins Monday.

The Negro youths will enter the 11th and 12th grades. Judge West's ruling called for total school desegregation in the parish within six years, progressing at a rate of two grades per year.

Under West's order, any applicant rejected by the school board may file an appeal with Meadows' office by next Tuesday, and may seek a conference with the superintendent between Wednesday and Saturday.

Judge West issued an injunction against all public officials and others from "doing anything calculated to obstruct or interfere with the orderly administration" of the school mixing plan.

St. Helena Negro students number 1,868 with 477 of them in high school grades 9 through 12. Total white enrollment is 1,012, with 272 of them high school students.

Bill To Provide Flood Controls On Mississippi

WASHINGTON (AP)—A compromise public works appropriations bill agreed on by a conference committee and approved Friday by the House would provide a total of $77,862,000 for flood-control work on the lower Mississippi River.

The bill makes only three reductions in amounts in the bill as it passed the Senate last week:

For channel improvements it would allow $26,892,000 rather than $27,250,000 as in the Senate bill and $26,165,000 as in the House bill; for the Atchafalaya Basin, La., it would allow $8,600,000 rather than $10 million as in the Senate bill and $7.2 million in the House bill; and for maintenance work to correct a scour condition on the lower Mississippi it would allow $1,700,000, compared with $2 million in the Senate bill and nothing in the House bill.

The compromise bill also allows $200,000, as originally voted by the House, for a survey of the Pascagoula River basin in Mississippi rather than $125,000 voted by the Senate.

LBj Promises Responsibility For U.S. Might

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, broadcasting from the White House on the occasion of the commissioning of a new Polaris submarine, promised Friday that "America's great strength will be used responsibly."

As the President spoke from the Cabinet Room, the USS Casimir Pulaski was being commissioned at Groton, Conn. This is a new nuclear submarine named for the Polish hero who lost his life for America at the Battle of Savannah on Oct. 11, 1779.

Paying tribute to Pulaski, Johnson said: "In his native Poland and on these shores he fought with a valor always so much a part of the Polish people."

Then the President turned to the role of Americans: "In all the history of man few people have been privileged to bear the responsibilities for all mankind which are borne now by this generation of Americans. Those responsibilities require us to run a responsible course through the perilous seas of our times."

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

(Dorothy Kilgallen is on vacation. Her guest columnist today is the musical comedy, nightclub and television star, Robert Goulet.)

By ROBERT GOULET

A student, in his pursuit of knowledge, never really knows whether he's succeeding or failing until his junior year in college. That year is the critical one; the going gets tougher. He soon learns that he will come out ahead only if he has really been applying himself; he will begin to backslide if he didn't pay enough attention to what he was doing during his first and second year.

It's much the same in show business. There are students who "just haven't got it," therefore cannot make the grade, and there are entertainers who similarly "just haven't got it," and go absolutely nowhere even when they have a hot first year as headliners.

Performers who suddenly come to the fore amid loud and fervent buzzes from the public and press always find the future is loaded with traps. In his first year of fame, the star is "the new boy in town"—everybody's darling. It's chic for the people in the know to be his fans. It's a brand new world for him, and it's beautiful.

But anyone who lets this sudden adulation go to his head, and fails to work even harder, is due for a rude awakening. If he keeps studying, keeps searching for new ideas and new ways of improving himself, he stands a chance of becoming a "standard" who will go on and on as a public favorite.

The really great names in show business are those who never stopped trying to better themselves from the very moment they first stepped on a stage.

Frank Sinatra is a good example. In the late thirties and early forties he exploded upon the entertainment scene. He had studied his craft on Tommy Dorsey's bandstand, and then, as a soloist, he became Big, Big, Big. He continued to be a favorite for quite a long stretch, but in those terrible "junior years," he began to backslide.

He begged his way into an acting role in "From Here to Eternity," won an Academy Award, and immediately was rediscovered not only by his own generation but by the new one.

Maurice Chevalier is another who has refused to rest on his laurels, and has refused to allow temporary setbacks to prevent him from working harder towards self-improvement. At the beginning of his career, he was a young, bouncy and charming singer. Today he stands out as an actor as well as a singer.

I recently watched this man—well in his seventies—in a concert. He sang, he joked and danced, and his every move indicated that Chevalier still works hard every day in his life to learn new tricks and to improve on the things he has already learned. At 72, he looked at a new script, decided to do the part, and said "It will be good for my career!"

It all sounds so fundamental, yet the history of show business is heavily illustrated with examples of performers who became famous "overnight" and just as quickly were forgotten because they neglected to work even harder after their names went up in lights.

Time alone will tell—as I enter my "junior years"—whether I have profited from the experiences of others. Certainly I am aware of the pitfalls, and I realize that if I am to get the dramatic roles I want so much, I must study hard in preparation for them. I must also take a chance on failure. A performer who doesn't stick his neck out—seek new fields to conquer—must stagnate. But when you gamble, you sometimes lose. No performer can hit a home run every time at bat.

I want to do as much as I can in show business—I want to act, to sing, in films, in concert halls, on the Broadway stage, on television, you name it.

And I fully intend to continue to study and earn the right to face the public as a performer.

How To Keep Well

WORRIED TO DEATH

Voodoo deaths have occurred among primitive people and usually are explained by intense fear, suggestion, or feelings of utter hopelessness. A similar phenomenon has been reported in wild animals; some have dropped dead when caged, with no possible means of escape. Is modern man too sophisticated to succumb to these psychological pressures? You can be the judge of the following report that appeared in the journal Psychosomatic Medicine:

A few months ago a middle-aged man was admitted to a VA hospital because of asthma. He was semi-comatose but responded to asthma remedies and was discharged two weeks later. He was hospitalized many times during the next six months for the same condition.

After the last visit he went directly from the hospital to his mother's home and within a few hours was wheezing again. He returned to the hospital and psychiatric consultation was advised when he became "depressed and voiced feelings of utter futility and hopelessness."

The history of his illness disclosed that the man's mother made all the family decisions, was always right, and never met a situation she could not control. He had no education but owned a night club financed by his mother. It prospered and he became a successful business man.

He received a good offer for the club and when he told his mother, she said, "Do this and something dire will happen to you." Two days later he developed asthma. His mother became angry when he finally sold the business. While undergoing treatment for his asthma, he frequently reaffirmed his fear of his mother's prediction.

He decided to reinvest the money in a business in which mother was not included -- and told her so over the phone. In her parting remarks, she reminded him that regardless of what the physicians said, he should remember her warning and be prepared for the prediction of "dire results." He was dead within an hour.

IMAGINATIVE DESCRIPTION
M. A. F. writes: What would cause gnats before the eyes and tiny golden flecks like Christmas sparklers?

REPLY
Gnats and sparklers are quite a combination. Migraine headache and various eye and neurological disorders are preceded by or associated with the appearance of strange lights. Floaters may be mistaken for gnats. These are small blood fluid of the eye. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on spots before the eyes.

ENLARGED GLAND
J. M. writes: How is benign enlargement of the prostate treated in men between 30 and 40?

REPLY
Enlargement due to infection is treated with massage and an antibiotic or a sulfonamide. Surgery is needed when the enlargement is associated with the aging process.

ABNORMAL ORGAN
Mrs. B. writes: In what way might a split uterus affect pregnancy?

REPLY
There are different types of double uteruses and some function better than others during pregnancy. When both sides are small, pregnancy often leads to spontaneous rupture of the uterus.

NEARSIGHTEDNESS
V. F. writes: Can myopia be cured by operation?

REPLY
No. Shortsightedness is caused by abnormalities in the size of the eyeball. Eyeglasses or corneal lenses will correct the defect.

Wreck Near Rayville Kills Local Negro

RAYVILLE (Special) — A 15-year-old Monroe Negro girl was killed instantly when the car in which she was riding was hit from the rear by a freight truck near here Friday afternoon.

According to state police, Wanda Faye Decatur was pinned partly under the car after the truck, driven by Calvin D. Gullett, 25, of Rt. 2, West Monroe, knocked the vehicle off the road. The girl fell part way out of a window as the car rolled over.

Officers said the accident happened when the driver of the car, Julian D. Decatur, 50, Negro, of Monroe, was going east on U.S. 80 about five miles east of here and was slowing down for traffic.

Gullett was charged with following too closely and negligent homicide. He was not injured.

The fatality brought Richland Parish's highway death toll to 13 for the year.

Union Election To Renew Bonds Slated Oct. 10

FARMERVILLE (Special) — The Union Parish Police Jury voted at its regular session to call a renewal bond election for the operation of the Union Parish Health Unit.

The election, set for October 10, will be for one and one-half mills.

Present to discuss needs of the health unit were state worker, Lillian Edward, and local sanitarian Richard Woolerson.

A request was made by a number of voters of ward 8 to hold a ward election to prohibit free grazing of hogs in that ward. Permission for the election was granted and date will be set later.

Farmerville Mayor Clyde Williams discussed the problem the city was having with fire prevention and informed the Police that effective December 31, the Farmerville Department would not be able to answer calls outside the city limits. Following this was a discussion of the possibility of receiving Civil Defense assistance in acquiring parish wide fighting equipment.

UNDERSTATED ELEGANCE

One of the fashion world's favorite terms is "understated," loosely defined as a costume elegant in its simplicity and lack of geegaws. Now comes Pauline Triggere's costume punning the understated. For fall, the New York designer showed a long dinner dress in black crepe with a narrow band of silver jewelry on the cuffs and around the hemline. This, she said, was her "understudded" dress.

Jurist Assigns Ouachita Cases To New Judge

Judge Ben C. Dawkins Jr., senior presiding judge of the U. S. Court in the Western District of Louisiana, has assigned several cases involving Monroe Negroes to Judge Richard J. Putnam for handling.

Judge Dawkins referred the cases to Judge Putnam since Judge Putnam will be on the bench beginning Monday. He completes his vacation schedule this weekend.

The second judge, Edwin Hunter, is also on vacation and will not return to duty until later this month.

Judge Dawkins will be off the bench for a check-up in Shreveport hospital beginning this weekend.

The cases involve a number of Monroe Negroes charged with disturbing the peace and contributing to the delinquency of juveniles in integration attempts on the Ouachita Parish library.

The cases will be held "at the earliest possible date" in the court room of the U. S. Post office and court house in Monroe.

School Officials Planning To Mix In Mississippi

CARTHAGE, Miss. (AP) — Leake County school officials discounted claims of civil rights leaders and said plans are being made to comply with federal court desegregation orders in county first grades.

The Council of Federated Organizations charged a policy of segregation was being maintained and urged Negro students to boycott their schools.

But school officials said the charges were groundless.

Negro classes opened last Monday, two weeks before white schools open Aug. 28. The school board said the action was implemented to allow Negro students a three-week vacation in September during the cotton picking season.

School board policy prohibits students from transferring from one school to another after classes have begun.

Dredges Take Sand, Mud Off Union Gunboat

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — Workers manned dredging operations Friday removing sand and mud from the sunken Union gunboat Cairo preliminary to efforts to raise it.

The vessel, which was brought to the surface several months ago, only to sink again when the river rose, was turned over to Warren County by the state this week. The state had gotten title from the federal government and planned to work with Vicksburg interests to raise it as a tourist attraction.

Chicago Wins Second Game 4-2 For Split

CHICAGO (AP) — Andre Rogers' two-run sixth inning homer powered the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 victory over Pittsburgh Friday in the second game of a doubleheader Friday after the Pirates took the opener 3-2 on Jerry Lynch's two-run homer with two out in the ninth. Chicago held 1-0 and 2-1 leads in the nightcap but the Pirates drew into a tie in the top of the sixth on a double by Bill Virdon, an infield out and Lynch's sacrifice fly. In the bottom of the sixth, Billy Cowan beat out an infield hit before Rodgers unloaded his 11th homer of the year.

Lynch's winning homer in the first game, his 15th of the year, came on the second pitch by reliever Bobby Shantz, who took over with two outs after starter Bob Buhl had walked Roberto Clemente.

The Cubs had staked Buhl to a 2-1 lead on Ron Santo's 23rd home run in the sixth inning. Santo's blast was the third and last hit of the game by the Cubs — all off starter Bob Veale.

Veale left in favor of a pinch hitter in the top of the eighth and Al McBean pitched two hitless innings to gain his sixth victory without defeat. It was McBean's 10th straight triumph over a two-year span. He has not lost a game in his last 59 appearances.

League Curfew Rule Out For Rest Of Season

CINCINNATI (AP) — National League President Warren C. Giles said Friday the 12:50 a.m. curfew will not be in effect the rest of the baseball season with the exception of Saturday night games in New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

The curfew rule says that no inning may start after 12:50 a.m., but the league rules provide that Giles may suspend it during the final series between two clubs.

Suspension of the curfew Saturday nights in New York, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh does not apply because of local law in those cities.

A game between the Los Angeles Dodgers and Reds in Cincinnati was called at the end of 11 innings on May 28 because of the curfew and had to be replayed.

Giles also invoked a league rule giving the umpires the authority to decide if any game shall start when bad weather or questionable field conditions prevail. This decision had been left up to the home club.

Dewitt declined to give a reason for Hutchinson's admission, which presumably is connected with his chest cancer that was discovered in January.

Hutchinson, 45, was placed on a leave of absence from the team Thursday and DeWitt said then he hoped the manager would be able to return to his job when the Reds came back from a road trip Aug. 24.

Since Hutchinson's condition was discovered, he has undergone treatments several times at Seattle, Wash., and went through a week of tests at Christ Hospital recently. He was released from the hospital Aug. 3.

Colts Rally For 28-28 Tie With Detroit Lions

DETROIT (AP) — A disputed pass interference call in the final two minutes earned the Baltimore Colts a 28-28 tie with the Detroit Lions Friday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

With the score 28-21, third down and nine yards to go, rookie Colt quarterback Gary Cuozzo threw a pass to end John Mackey which fell incomplete on the Detroit five.

Officials ruled pass interference on Lion defensive back Gary Lower, giving Baltimore a first down on the five.

From there, halfback Tom Matte crashed off right tackle for the touchdown. Jim Martin's extra point tied the game.

Sessions will be held at 8:30 a.m. and 5-7 p.m. Wells noted that he will hold Monday through Friday practices until school opens. However, he cautioned, if progress is not up to par, Saturday sessions may be required.

The new head mentor and his assistant expressed eagerness to get into action. They are expected to have several outstanding players back from last year's young team.

OILERS GET MCFADIN

Houston Trades Lee To Broncos

HOUSTON (AP) — Jack Lee, Houston Oilers quarterback who was temporarily traded Friday to Denver for tackle Bud McFadin, says he never again will play for the American Football League Oilers.

A top Oiler official said, however, Lee would return to Houston in two years.

But 26-year-old Lee refused to stand still for the unique lease agreement.

"I'm through here and I have no desire to come back," Lee told the Houston Post.

"I'm going to get a lawyer and fight this thing if Houston tries to get me back."

Chicago Rips

Boston 11-1

With Buzhardt

BOSTON (AP) — Chicago right-hander Johnny Buzhardt, braced by six unearned runs before he threw a pitch, hurled a four-hit, 11-1 victory over woeful Boston Friday night.

The lean native of Prosperity, S.C., who will be 28 Monday, held the Red Sox hitless until Lee Thomas lined a long single to right with one out in the fifth inning. Felix Mantilla's solo homer in the sixth foiled his shutout bid.

The victory was Buzhardt's ninth, equalling his major league high for a season.

Meanwhile the White Sox, battling to remain close to Baltimore's American League leaders, hammered out 16 hits and had a 6-0 lead before Boston came to bat.

Ron Hansen smashed a three-run homer, his first of two in the game, during the first inning spree off loser Earl Wilson.

But the fumbling Red Sox opened the gates by committing two quick errors and failed to field a pair of tainted hits.

The loss was the 12th in the last 13 games for Boston. The Red Sox have dropped 12 of 16 season meetings with Chicago.

Don Buford had a triple, double and two singles for Chicago but teammate Floyd Robinson, the league's No. 2 hitter, was the only regular not to connect and saw a 10-game streak snapped.

Football For

Twin Cities To

Start Today

Conditioning drills are the order of the day for Twin City footballers as 1964 fall workouts get underway.

All three local high schools, which will be playing in the same district for the first time this season, are slated to issue equipment this morning and start "getting the feel" of things.

West Monroe coach Cecil Pirkey and Neville mentor Charlie Brown plan to get in a light session this morning after issuing practice togs while Frank Mobley, pilot at Ouachita High, will spend the remainder of the morning having his players receive a physical examination.

At Neville, Coach Brown will have his 1964 edition on the field by 9:00 and plans to run them through an hour and a half workout. The Tigers will come back for an under-the-lights session at 7 p.m. with individual drills being stressed, and a workout in shorts is planned for Sunday afternoon.

The Neville junior varsity players will practice at 7 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. everyday.

West Monroe varsity and junior varsity players are slated to be on the field by 9:15 today and will go through a light drill, consisting mostly of running. The squad will return at 3:30 for a two-hour session.

There will be no Sunday workouts at either West Monroe or Ouachita.

Ouachita's Lions will be on the field for their first session at 4 p.m. today and the practice will be approximately two hours. Conditioning will be emphasized with some time being spent on individual blocking drills.

Neville will have approximately 45 boys out for the varsity team with about that many expected for the junior varsity squad.

West Monroe is expecting around 70 boys to report, including varsity and junior varsity hopefuls.

At Ouachita, around 75 or 80 are expected with 50 of these eligible for varsity competition.

New York State Newspapers Hostile To Kennedy's Carpetbagging

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Reaction of the New York State press to the possible U.S. Senate candidacy of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy is almost unanimously hostile, on the score that he is not a New Yorker.

The paramount issue pounced upon — in newspaper editorials ranging from Manhattan to Lake Erie — is that of "carpet-bagging." With rare exceptions, the editorialists ask why it is necessary for the Democratic party to go outside the state for a candidate to represent the people of New York.

Kennedy, who has not announced he will run, appears to have enough support among the delegates who will choose the nominee at a convention Sept. 1 and he is widely expected to enter the race. The late President John F. Kennedy's brother now lives in Virginia, but Massachusetts is his home base.

Here is an Association Press roundup of pertinent excerpts from editorials this week in the papers, many of which are normally Republican but some of which are independent or Democratic:

NEW YORK TIMES — Why he (Kennedy) has any special claim on New York to rescue him from nonoffice is a mystery. The real issue, of course, is whether New York is so poverty-stricken for United States Senate material of authentic residence that it has to import a young man so obviously nonresident that he is just about to be a Massachusetts delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE — Bobby Kennedy presents himself as the indispensable man, for whose progress New York is to be made a handy vehicle. And this is an outrageous proposition, an affront to the state's voters and to the U.S. Senate.

BUFFALO EVENING NEWS — Until now, the whole idea of handing the New York Democratic senatorial nomination over to a complete outsider has seemed like some kind of absurd joke. But apparently it is a joke we are going to have to take seriously. What's wrong with having New York represented in the Senate by the first-rate New Yorker (Kenneth B. Keating, Rochester Republican) it has there now?

UTICA DAILY PRESS — "Even if, by some legal maneuver, Mr. Kennedy meets the residential qualifications, many may feel reluctance to give their votes to a man who comes from the outside to run in their state chiefly because his party thinks he can attract votes."

ROCHESTER DEMOCRAT & CHRONICLE — True, the attorney general would be no ordinary candidate but even the magic name of Kennedy would not spare him the charge of "carpetbagging." Bobby Kennedy, an engaging public figure, would be a political intruder the moment he declared his candidacy.

NEW YORK — When Robert F. Kennedy's name first cropped up as a possibility for the Democratic senatorial nomination last spring we wrote that we unhesitatingly welcome the suggestion that he make New York his home and the base of his political operations. The argument that he would be an 'interloper' did not impress us then. It does not do so now.

BINGHAMTON PRESS — Kennedy's chances of election would be good. Whether as an out-of-stater he would be good for the state or good for the Democratic party in the state are other questions.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Hands often give a woman's age away. As a matter of fact, they frequently look much older than she does.

The hands of modern woman are extremely versatile. They may wield a golf club or a tennis racquet, indulge in all the housekeeping chores and cooking and still look lovely across the dinner table.

However, this doesn't just happen. It reflects regular, simple, daily care. Frantic periodic efforts will not do the job. No part of a woman's physical ensemble shows neglect more quickly than the hands and these are always so much in evidence.

USE LOTION

Use only lukewarm water on the hands when ever possible. Do not use a nail brush which is too harsh. Most important, use a good hand lotion, not just at night, but when ever you wash your hands. We all know this, but few busy women really use a hand lotion this often.

If the cuticle around your nails is dry, push it back each night with an orange stick, after massaging a cuticle cream into the dry skin.

Rice Bag Party Given To Honor Miss Alice Hay

A rice bag party, co-hosted by Mrs. Gene Fordham and Mrs. Richard Sanders was given in the Fordham home on Tyree Drive in West Monroe last Tuesday, August 11, in preparation for Miss Hay's marriage to Jimmy Miller last night at Good Hope Baptist Church.

Miss Hay, wearing a sports ensemble of colony blue Bermudas with a matching print overblouse, was presented with a gift by her hostesses during the evening.

A light buffet was served to the guests as they made the rice bags. Those attending were Misses Mary Babb, Karen Donaldson, Sandy Lowry, Jeannette Hay, Jo Pierce, Virginia Wilson, Mrs. Betty Hay, the hostesses and the honoree.

If you would like to have my exercises for the hands, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for to Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Wallpaper Makes Good Kitchen Shelf Lining

By Heloise Cruse

Dear Gals:

Those of you who paper your own kitchens or have them papered . . . always buy an extra roll (you can also save the scraps after papering) and keep it on hand to cover the shelves. It matches your walls and is darling.

After helping a friend paper her kitchen last week, we covered all the shelves and the insides of the drawers to match. We covered the paper in the drawers with plastic so that she can wipe them with a damp sponge.

On the shelves, we put waxed paper over the wall paper. It was cheaper and the paper just happened to fit the shelves. We used pinky scissors to make an edge. Darling.

When a cabinet is opened or a drawer is pulled out . . . everything matches.

My friend then went out and bought an extra roll of paper just to have on hand when it becomes necessary to replace the shelf and drawer liners.

Wall paper is not only attractive and practical, but its cheaper than most shalf paper.

Dear Heloise:

Here is one of my best time-saving hints: (I suppose I must have them by the dozen or I don't think I'd get through the day sometimes with my six children!)

Instead of having salt and pepper in separate shakers, I have one shaker where I have mixed up salt and pepper (any proportion one prefers).

This way, in seasoning hamburger or any such food, it goes on in one shake. Time saving, eh?

Joe "Babbie"

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I found that spots of paint won't show on garments worn during a paint job, if you wear the garments wrong-side-out.

Bonnie F. Braun

Dear Heloise:

To get rid of the sediment

(mineral deposit) in the bottom of your empty tea kettle, simply put the tea kettle in your freezer overnight. This causes the metal to contract, breaking the mineral deposits off without the danger of hurting or discoloring the metal finish!

Mrs. F. E. Miltler

Gently tap the bottom of the kettle with a wooden spoon.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I bought a king-size container of liquid bleach and when the container was empty I poured my powdered laundry detergent into it, using a large granite funnel. You can either print the name of the detergent on the plastic container or paste the name cut from the detergent box on it.

This eliminates the soggy cardboard box bottoms that waste your powdered detergent.

Mary Butler

Dear Meatloaf Lovers:

If you even just have to make that pound of hamburger stretch when making your meatloaf, try adding some precooked rice!

This is especially good when it's a bit soppy or too soft to mold. Also gives it lots of body.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When making sugar cookies, I roll the cookie dough out on a pastry board dusted with sugar, rather than flour.

This eliminates the bother of sprinkling the cookies later with sugar and the clean-up job is easier and much faster.

DEAR ABBY

Teen-Ager Complains About Dad's Attitude

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am almost 15 and I think I know why kids end up in parked cars doing what they shouldn't.

Boys have started coming to my house along with girls, and my Dad is already complaining about the noise, and not having any privacy any more. I have always brought my girl friends to my house to watch television or just to talk, or to make lemonade and stuff, but this year it's different. Sometimes I think Dad hates to see me grow up. I'd rather have a boy come to my house than go out on a date with one and I should think my Dad would prefer that, too.

I really don't want to go off in a car with a boy. I just want a place where my friends can come and have fun and act like teen-agers without feeling guilty about being one. To my way of thinking, it's better to have room to move around, play games, and make fudge than to run off some place in a car because, if you keep driving, you get to speeding just for fun, and if you park somewhere, you might just go too far if you aren't careful.

I wonder how many kids who end up in trouble had these same thoughts and fears? I wish you would tell parents, Abby, that we kids aren't bad. We just want to get together, and home is our favorite spot, if only we were made to feel welcome.

SPEAKING FOR TEENS

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year old boy who is very mature for my age and look much older. There is a divorced lady who lives on the corner near me. Ev-

Saturday Open House Honors Bernice Couple

The home of Dr. and Mrs. M. Wickliffe Laurence Jr. in Bernice was the setting for an open house last Saturday evening honoring Miss Martha Jane Lee and Dr. George Hoyer Grafton, whose marriage will be solemnized tonight in the First Baptist Church of Bernice.

Miniature boxwood and candle caladiums outlined the long front porch where Miss Margaret Laurence invited guests to register in the bride's book. She sat at a white wrought iron table, adorned by an etched crystal hurricane lamp holding a burning white taper encircled with miniature English ivy. Massive Boston ferns on tall stands were at either end of the porch.

Pink caladium leaves were used in the entrance hall, where guests were greeted by Mrs. Laurence and presented to Miss Lee, Dr. Grafton, Mrs. Fred W. Marsh, mother of the bride and Mrs. George D. Grafton, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Miss Lee wore a pink voile frock fashioned with shirred bodice and gracefully full skirt. She wore white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The rose carved gold frame mirror over the mantle in the living room reflected a lovely arrangement of pink asters, chrysanthemums and fern in an oblong cut glass bowl. Crystal cambridge arms filled with pink asters, white chrysanthemums and English ivy graced the coffee table.

Covered with an applied white organdy and linen cloth over pink, the dining table was centered with a pyramid arrangement of white chrysanthemums, pink feathered carnations, fern and miniature English ivy in an antique silver and crystal epergne, flanked by pink tapered aglow in silver candelabras. Miss Carolyn Lee and Miss Nancy Colvin presided at the crystal punch bowl.

Pink tapers were aglow in etched cut glass candle holders on the buffet centered with a fan shaped arrangement of pink and white flowers in a cut crystal bowl on silver footing, reflecting in a gold leaf mirror.

Approximately 100 guests called between the appointed hours of 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., a number of them from out of town.

Negroes Register Quietly At Biloxi

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — A handful of Negro children registered quietly at previously all-white schools in this Gulf Coast resort Friday, the first of their race to break segregation barriers below the college level in this Deep South state.

Mississippi was the nation's last holdout against the U.S. Supreme Court's historic school desegregation ruling of a decade ago.

There were no incidents as Negro children walked under a hot sun into modern brick elementary schools. Policemen stood by and FBI agents watched from parked cars.

Biloxi, which claims to be the nation's third oldest city — founded in 1699 — is desegregating its first-grade classes under a federal court order that also applies to Jackson, the state capital, and rural Leake County, Clarksdale, in the Mississippi delta, in under similar orders to start integration this fall.

There have been no racial disorders here since Negroes tried to integrate Biloxi's beaches several years ago.

At mid-morning, the first Negroes — two boys and a girl — appeared at Lopez School.

Traffic Charges Dominate West Monroe Docket

West Monroe Court was dominated by traffic violations Friday in a short session presided over by Judge John McCormick.

Fined $300 each on charges of driving while intoxicated were Clayton Butler, 51, Joyce; Hazel M. Love, 18, 107 Pelican Dr., West Monroe, and Charles L. Berry, 33, 309 Drew St., West Monroe.

Fined for reckless driving were Francis B. Moore, 27, Rt. 5, West Monroe $25; Henry Johnson, 39, 813 Coleman St., West Monroe, $25; Dowd Wages, 18, 2325 Jonesboro Rd., $20; Ernest Gibson, 416 Ridge Dr., $20; Henry Wells, 36, Box 231, Monroe, $10; Lemmie Wood, 218 Bell Lane, $20; John Peters Jr., Richwood Rd., Monroe, $10; and Happy McDonald, Rt. 2, Eros, $25.

Fined for speeding were Richard Lewis, 58, 1127 Lawson St., Ruston, $10; Joe C. Montgomery, 1804 Island Dr., Monroe, $15, and Andrew J. Amason, 19, 1716 Bailey St., West Monroe, $10.

Czechs Picket U.S. Embassy, Break Window

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Demonstrators protesting American action in North Viet Nam broke one window in the U.S. Embassy in Prague on Friday, the embassy reported. A spokesman said the demonstrators numbered about 70, "apparently students from Asia and Africa and a few Europeans."

The Czechoslovak news agency CTK said the group protested what was called "the recent American aggression against the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam."

American planes last week attacked North Vietnamese torpedo boat installations after clashes between the boats and U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

CTK said the demonstration was peaceful.

Asked whether the embassy would make a protest to Czechoslovak authorities, the U.S. spokesman said, "I doubt it."

"We were not excited about it, a window pane was broken, and that was all," he said. He added the demonstration lasted about 10 minutes.

RFK Appears More Likely For N.Y. Seat

NEW YORK (AP) — There were more predictions Friday that Robert F. Kennedy will be the Democratic candidate for the New York Senate seat now held by Republican Kenneth B. Keating.

But the attorney general and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City — whose "express approval" Kennedy said he must have — weren't saying anything. President Johnson was reported by a reliable source in Washington to be keeping hands off despite published reports the President had let leading New York Democrats know he was in sympathy with a Kennedy candidacy.

Alex Rose, vice chairman of the Liberal party, predicted that Wagner will endorse Kennedy for the Senate seat, possibly next week — just before the Democratic National Convention which Kennedy is scheduled to attend as a delegate from Massachusetts.

Rose said the Liberal party, which usually gets about 400,000 votes, will support Kennedy if he is nominated at a State Democratic Convention on Sept. 1.

The Liberals have backed U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, who recently conferred with Wagner who reported Stevenson "didn't say he was a candidate."

Paul O'Dwyer, a New York City councilman and brother of former Mayor William O'Dwyer, said he will not withdraw as a Senate candidate, and will wage a floor fight to block Kennedy.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, who is an undecided candidate but has been busy rounding up delegates, has said he will challenge any Kennedy nomination in the courts on grounds that he is not a New York resident. Kennedy lives in Virginia, and votes in Massachusetts.

O'Dwyer said he will fight for a secret ballot among the convention delegates on the nomination, because without it the decision "finally resolves itself around 10 people in the state dictating who the candidate will be."

Kennedy was believed to have backing in 16 counties with 700 of the 1,144 convention votes — but not necessarily solid support in all those counties. Stratton claims to have support in 35 of the 62 counties, but has not claimed any specified number of delegates.

The New York Times said President Johnson had expressed sympathy with the Kennedy candidacy and quoted an unidentified New York political figure, who also said that Johnson had not promoted Kennedy but declared he felt Kennedy would help the ticket.

In Washington, a source in a position to know said Kennedy has not consulted Johnson about any plans to run for the Senate.

Furthermore, the source said, Johnson feels it is entirely up to Kennedy and the people of New York; that he has no recommendation and will not make one.

Wagner, who has spoken highly of Kennedy but has not endorsed him, said he has spoken to no one about his "final decision," but will meet with Kennedy soon "to hear from him what his plans are."

There were the pest control people, in fact four different firms were represented; a representative from a local lumber company, a dry cleaning establishment, a window awning man, a rent-a-dealer, a TV repair man, two real estate dealers, and in case he decided to sell, two moving vans ready to load.

The gentleman in question said he wasn't moving, didn't need all the other services and didn't know why they were there.

Apparently a prank, the police said, and the convoy went their respective ways.

The plant, with a capacity of 500 million cubic feet of gas daily, is expected to be in operation by the end of 1965. Coastal States will operate it.

NEW YORK (UPI) — A jointly-owned $7.5 million liquid hydrocarbon extraction plant will be built in Bay City, Tex., by Brazos Oil & Gas Co., a Dow Chemical Co. division, and Coastal States Gas Producing Co.

The plant, with a capacity of 500 million cubic feet of gas daily, is expected to be in operation by the end of 1965. Coastal States will operate it.

Officers Book Negro, 23, For 2 Burglaries

A set of fingerprints aided Monroe police and the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department Friday in capturing a 23-year-old Negro suspected of burglarizing the American National Bank and a law firm office, both located in the 2000 block of Roselawn Ave.

James Patrick Loudd, 23, of 405 Magnolia St., Monroe, was apprehended about 1 p.m. Friday in the 200 block of DeSiard St., after prints obtained at the bank and law firm were identified as his.

The fingerprints were picked up and identified by Warren Sievers, identification deputy with the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department. Sheriff Bailey Grant said card prints were obtained at both locations of the burglaries.

Loudd, who entered both buildings by breaking large plate glass windows, admitted the burglaries the sheriff said, but refused to disclose where the safe taken from the insurance firm was hidden. The safe was recovered later Friday still intact, authorities said.

Although there was some breakage damage done inside the bank, investigating authorities reported, nothing apparently was taken.

Sheriff Grant said the suspect's car had bark and leaves on the undercarriage when he was apprehended. It apparently came, he said, from a damaged bush near where the safe was loaded into the car.

Loudd was booked on two counts of burglary, according to the sheriff's department.

In other police action, Monroe authorities booked James Lewis Ford, 44, 505 Pecan St., Winfield, on charges of driving while intoxicated and reckless driving after his arrest at 12:25 a.m. Friday.

Eddie Hollins, 20, 4104 Gayton St., was booked on a simple battery charge after his arrest at 3:35 p.m. at Gayton and Sherrouse Streets on a warrant.

Horse Show Has 2nd Night Despite Rain

BASTROP (Special) — Rain failed to dampen the spirits of the horses or the spectators at Friday night's Bastrop Horse Show.

Twelve classes, including parade horses, gaited and walking horses, were shown in the show's second night. Billy Ledbetter, popular recording artist, appeared with his band.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Production of the nation's factories and mines scored a substantial gain in July, advancing for the eleventh straight month.

The Federal Reserve Board said its index of industrial production moved upward a full point to 132.7. This means that output was 32.7 per cent higher than the average for the 1957-59 period which is used as a base of 100 in the index.

There has been a new record in production in each of the past 10 months.

The July production rate was 5 1/2 per cent above a year ago with the increase spread over all major industry groups.

Output of business equipment was nine per cent higher than in July 1963.

Automobiles continued to roll out at a record level after allowance for some cutbacks in preparation for the annual model changeover.

There also were increases in production of consumer staples, television sets, furniture and most other household goods.

HORSEBACK

Riding Group Making Trip To Wilmot This Weekend

By CAROL BRAXTON
World Staff Writer

Horseback to Wilmot, Ark.? Yes, that's exactly what the Riverside Rider's Club is doing this weekend, according to trailmaster, Hugh Pitts.

The group was scheduled to leave Monroe from the Embers Restaurant at 5 a.m. today and plan to arrive in Collinston around noon. Pitts said there were lots of shade trees along the road from Monroe "until you pass Stink Creek."

"We'll peg along pretty smart to Stink Creek and then we'll take about an hour break," Pitts said. The trailmaster explained that the rest stop will be more for the riders than the horses, because most of the group haven't ridden for long periods at a time. Wilmot is about 60 miles from Monroe.

Those making the trip are Hugh and Majorie Pitts, Mrs. George Snellings Jr., Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Nugent, Will Thompson and his son Danny, W. B. Aycock, his son Billy and the Aycock's houseguest, Virginia Smith, Sara McSherry, the commissioner's daughter, Frank Eason Jr., Paul Neal, his daughter Paula Neal, Johnnie Hester and Lea Thompson.

Thompson and Hester will follow along behind the group in a truck with soft drinks and sandwiches.

The riding enthusiasts will unsaddle in Collinston and rest for a short while and then jog on into Mer Rouge.

The riders, according to Pitts, will take a break about every four hours. They plan to make four miles an hour as they will just be "taking our time," Pitts added.

It's approximately 18 miles from Monroe to Collinston and 12 miles from there to Mer Rouge. At "Red Sea" Joe Davenport will put up the horses for the night while the group travels by car to Wilmot. Davenport's home Saturday night for a barbecue in their honor.

The riders will return to Mer Rouge early Sunday morning to pick up their horses to finish the last leg of the journey to Wilmot. For the return trip, the horses will be brought back in their trailers and the riders will drive.

Most of the horses being ridden on the trip are quarter horses, but there are a few saddle horses, Pitts said.

Pitts said he was appointed trailmaster at a meeting which he didn't attend. He said there was "a lot of responsibility" in the job.

"When you get ready to take a trip," Pitts said, "everyone seems to know a shorter way to get there." He said he had many suggestions on the "best and shortest way to get to Wilmot," and he went out in his car and checked the various routes out. When the final trail was decided upon, he made the trip to approximate distance and time.

This is the first "trip of any length" that the club has made other than a 25-mile trip on July 4 which Pitts jokingly explained, "wore everybody out." He has planned this trip so that the riders and the horses will not get unduly tired from the ride or suffer too much from the heat.

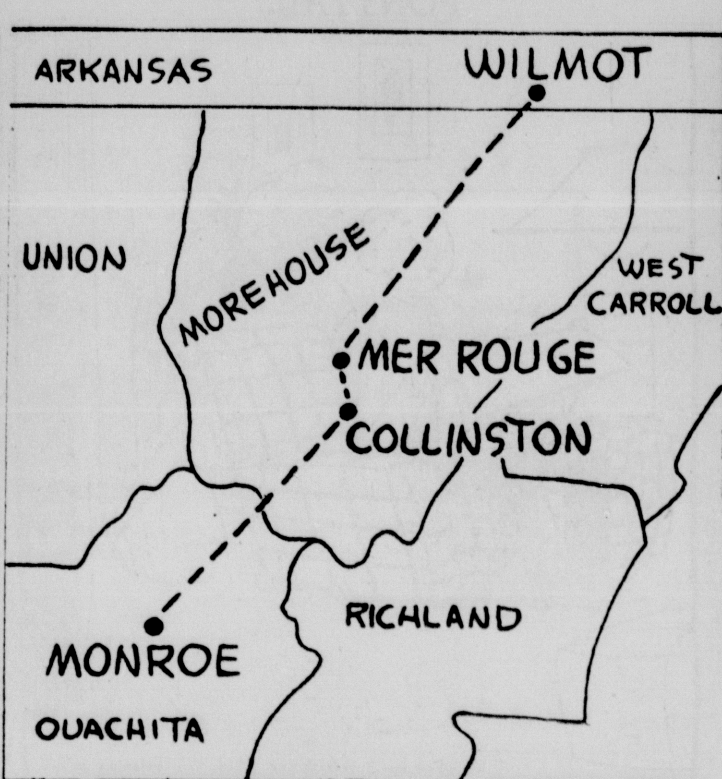

The riders club is "a dream of Mrs. Shellings and mine," Pitts said. The club has only been organized this year and is primarily "supervised activity for the youngsters," Pitts explained.

Charter families of the club are the George Snellings, L. E. Nugents, Will Thompsons, Bill Aycocks, Frank Easons, Paul Neals, J. B. Hesters, John Stricklers, Joe Carsos, Dave Davises, Hugh Pitts and Mary Vaughn. Strickler is president of the club.

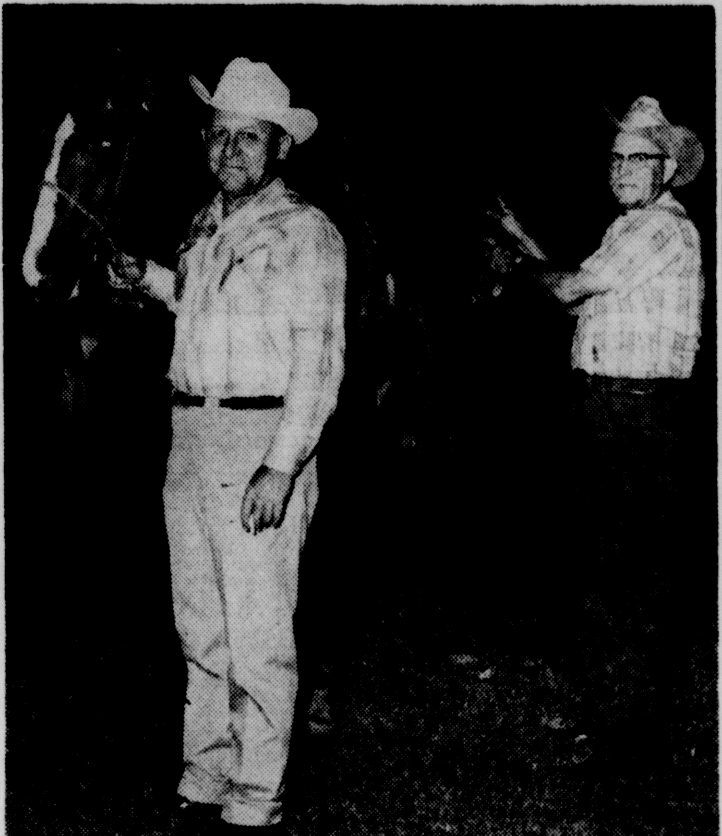

"The organization is one of the nicest groups I've ever been connected with both in sportsmanship and fellowship," Pitts said.

The club just put the lights up in their arena this past week. The land for the area was given to the club by Snellings.

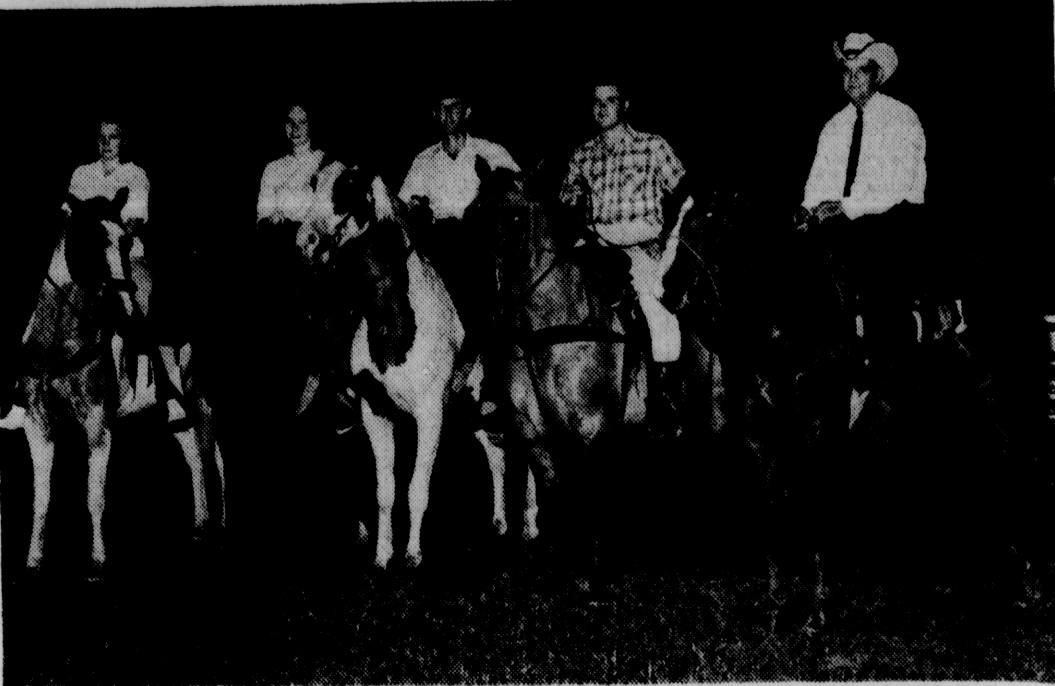

"We really have something to offer the youth who wish to join us," Pitts stated and added, "we all have to chip in and foot the bills and we all share in the work, but most of it's fun."

THE DOTTED LINES show the route the Monroe riders will take from Monroe to Wilmot, Ark.

Kenya Set To Become Republic

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta said Friday that Kenya will become a republic on the first anniversary of its independence, Dec. 12, with an executive president replacing Britain's Queen Elizabeth II as head of state.

Kenyatta, who made the announcement in Parliament, would almost certainly become the nation's first president. He said Kenya will remain a member of the British Commonwealth.

The onetime leader of the anti-white Mau Mau said the government did not intend to change present constitutional provisions for freedom of association, speech and assembly and the rule of laws and human dignity.

He announced sweeping constitutional changes which will concentrate power in the hands of a central government at the expense of Kenya's seven regional authorities.

The proposed changes were promptly denounced by opposition leader Ronald Ngala as a declaration of political war likely to "destroy peace, cooperation and prosperity in the country."

Ngala, leader of the Kenya African Democratic Union, said his party "deplores and rejects" the proposed constitutional changes and has pledged to resist them inside and outside Parliament.

"I don't want this form of republic which deprives local people of the power to control their own local affairs," he declared.

Employment Rises Above 1963 Levels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department said Friday employment has averaged 1.6 million above 1963 levels for the first seven months of 1964.

"Recent improvements appear to have broken the 10-year upturn in unemployment," the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said, noting that in the same period the total labor force increased by only 1.4 million.

The bureau had reported earlier that the jobless rate dipped below 5 per cent in July for the first time in four and one-half years, to 4.9 per cent.

In a detailed analysis, the bureau said nonfarm employment dropped 200,000 from June to July, but this was less than the normal seasonal dip and the 59 million total of employed in July was up 1.5 million over the same month last year. Nonfarm payroll employment has expanded 1.1 million since last December, on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Ban On Aid Raises Ire Of Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — The U.S. Senate's move to ban further aid to Indonesia comes at a time of steadily growing anti-American feeling in this awedly neutral island nation.

Diplomatic sources forecast a sharp reaction, regardless of whether the House confirms the decision to dam the stream that has poured $70 million into Indonesia since 1950.

Though President Sukarno was quoted as saying "to — with aid" in a speech last March, officials of his regime withheld immediate public comment on the 62-28 Senate vote in Washington for the amendment by Sen. John G. Tower to the foreign aid bill.

But Foreign Minister Subandrio had a talk with the U.S. charge d'affaires, Francis J. Galbraith. Embassy officials reported they could not say what the two discussed.

By coincidence, the issue arose as Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia, who renounced $30 million a year in American aid nine months ago and accused the United States of backing subversion against his government, arrived for a six-day state visit to Indonesia.

FROST IN WISCONSIN

Cold Wave Starts Furnaces In East

By United Press International

Thermostats kicked on heating systems instead of air conditioners Friday in the chilled eastern half of the nation.

Cold weather records—including one that had stood for 81 years — tumbled in 18 states.

The mercury sank to freezing in the Minnesota north woods. Frost sheathed cranberry bogs in Wisconsin. Hoosiers saw their breath in Indiana's early morning air.

In contrast, Nome, Alaska, was in the grip of a "heat wave." The temperature hit 80 there Thursday and 77 Wednesday — both August records for the city on the icy Bering Sea.

Return To Normal

Weathermen promised a return to more nearly normal temperatures Friday night and Saturday in the Northern Plains and the Upper Mississippi Valley. But they indicated New England could expect five more days of nippy weather.

Warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico lifted up over the cool air and touched off thundershowers from the drought-weary Southwest to the lower Ohio River Valley.

More than 5 inches of rain hit Frocker, Okla. A severe thunderstorm alert was up from east central New Mexico to southwest Kansas.

The nation's official low was 32 — freezing — at Hibbing, Minn. An unofficial 31 was registered in a cranberry bog at Black River Falls, Wis.

Residents of Duluth, Minn., accustomed to cooling breezes off Lake Superior, shivered in a 36-degree temperature — the lowest August temperature ever recorded at the head of the Great Lakes.

All-time August lows were equalled at Madison, Wis., where the mercury dipped to a frosty 37; Fort Wayne, Ind., where it fell to 41; and Hatteras, N.C., where it was 54.

Record lows for so early in the month were reported in Rochester, Minn., 37; Waterloo, Iowa, and Toledo, Ohio, 39; and Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., 43.

Record temperatures for August were set in at least 36 cities in 18 states. Nature's record air conditioning spread from Minnesota to Maine and southward into the Gulf States and the Carolinas.

Detroit's reading of 48 smashed a record that had stood since 1883. A 45 at Rochester, N.Y., topped a 71-year-old record.

Weapons Count Lands Man In Jail For Year

A 20-year-old Monroe Negro, Wilbur Johnson of 3508 Dunlap St., was sentenced to one year in jail for use of dangerous weapon after he appeared before Judge W. M. Harper in Monroe City Court Friday.

Two other persons were sentenced to jail terms on theft charges by Judge Harper. They were Robert Lee Little, 18, 3511 Pippin St., and Willie Henderson, 19, 918 Hoods Alley, Monroe. Both were sentenced to 60 days on the charge.

Robert J. Johnston, 43, 3301 DeSiard St., was fined $200 on a theft charge.

Forfeiting bond for reckless driving was Opal Skipper, 212 Dianne St., $30. Bernell Needham, 50, 2006 Flynn St., was fined $10 on the charge while Frank Wade, 44, 910 S. 16th St., was fined $15 with the fine suspended. Charges of reckless driving against Betty Hastings, 33, 3707 Debora Dr., and H. J. Herritt acted on a direct order from Mayor Claude Pittman Jr. who said the reason for the sudden closure was: "We decided to have a pre-school inventory of all our books. We hope to be finished by Monday and open again."
